A Personal Message of Infinite Love

Beyond its catchy production, the song carries a deeply personal and timely message from DAN. Moving beyond the heavy weight of current global events, the track is a call for connection and a reflection on the vital importance of love in all its forms.

"The universe is infinite. Is love infinite too? I believe so," explains DAN. "Without love, we humans cannot live together. There are many forms of love. And every single one of them is important."

He adds: "Love is like the air we breathe. We need it. People die without love. It's up to you to decide which form of love is right for you. I hope you have love in your life. It's there, even if you might not be able to see it right now."

This theme is perfectly echoed in the track's lyrics, which draw a parallel between the vacuum of space and the physical necessity of love with lines like, "It's like I'm running out of oxygen / I feel your presence pull me in." The anthemic chorus invites the listener to leave their worries behind: "I'm caught up in our universe / Now we're floating in the stars / Don't take me back to planet Earth / Cause I'm happy where we are."
